Who are we?

Forestry Service Group (FSG) is a Netherlands based company dedicated to help protect the world's remaining forests, natural areas and larger biological and climatic systems from further degradation and to promote sustainable livelihood and business development across the world.

As a group of professionals with a background in natural resource management (NRM) and international development, we established the Forestry Service Group in 1995. FSG has since served as a collective consulting platform for supporting profit-and non-profit organizations in the South and North toward improved sustainability of natural resource-based commodity chains. We have worked in 113 different projects in 44 countries up till 2014.

FSG consultants are driven by their commitment to help solve global challenges such as climate change, deforestation and poverty. We believe that solving these NRM related challenges requires simultaneous presence of three components: market opportunities (Economic benefit), sustainability criteria (Environmental benefits) and stakeholder commitment (Social benefits). The integration of all three components in relation with natural resource management is what FSG calls "Sustainable Resource Management". And indeed we are professionals in that!

And in the spirit of its integral nature, LAND⁺ has become our new brand for integrated services that were offered previously in a separate way.

LAND⁺ is a stepwise approach to increase economic, social and environmental benefits from land in a balanced way. Services and steps to develop your LAND⁺ idea:
